

Melville Cares board chairman Richard Hill and administrator El Bennett are looking for new board members. Picture: Martin Kennealey

www.communitypix.com.au d362439

Call out for caring committee members

NOT-for-profit community support organisation Melville Cares is looking for passionate professionals to join its board.

The Melville Cares board lost three senior members and more than 50 years of collective experience recently.

Chairman Richard Hill said volunteers who had a strong community spirit and corporate nous were needed on the board to help guide planning in aged care and disability services for a few hours bi-monthly.

The organisation is an independent, community-based service provider that helps people live independently and participate in their local community. It relies on volunteers to deliver services, such as transport and home visits.

Send an expression of interest for a board position to PO Box 266, Melville WA, 6956. Call 9319 0900 or visit www.melvillecares.org.au for more information.